

TART Trails

TART Trails

When you visit Traverse City on your next vacation or weekend getaway, bring your bikes and running shoes, and make sure to set aside a day or two to explore the TART Trails. This paved 10.5-mile urban corridor from Greilickville to Williamsburg offers scenic views of East and West Grand Traverse Bays. In Greilickville, you can also continue north 17 miles on the Leelanau Trail (see page 46).

The main spine of the TART Trail follows the contours of the bay and connects with numerous hotels, restaurants and attractions along the way, including Traverse City State Park with its quarter mile of sugar beach. On this well-maintained trail, you'll share your adventure with rollerbladers, cyclists, runners, and couples walking their dogs. The trail also passes by West End Beach and Clinch Park Beach.

Take the TART Trail on a scenic tour along the edge of West Bay.

Explore the Traverse City area on this nicely maintained network of trails.

South of downtown, the TART Trail connects with the 4-mile Boardman Lake Loop Trail, which was completed in 2022. At the intersection of Woodmere and Boyd Avenues, you will need to ride west through the Filling Station Microbrewery parking area, then turn left at Franklin Street and cross over the railroad tracks to access the trail.

The east end of the TART trail starts near the intersection of Bates Road and M-72 in Williamsburg. You will need to travel south on Lautner Road and west on Bunker Hill Road to connect with the main trail near Acme. From Bunker Hill Road, you can travel a half mile south on Bartlett Road to the VASA Pathway Trailhead. The VASA Pathway is a State Forest natural area known for its nicely developed trail loops (3K, 5K, 10K, 25K) for running, hiking, mountain biking, fat biking, snowshoeing and cross-country skiing.